

Lesson 3

Text-dependent questions

Let's remember that as critical readers, thinkers, and writers, we are going to read different stories to learn information to help us answer this guiding question: How can I understand my feelings and thoughts when I experience different things in my life? As we read the anchor texts in this unit, let's think of information or ideas we can learn from the text that will help us answer this guiding question.

Sing the Read Aloud Song and re-read the story. Then, complete the third step of the Close Reading process 3. Use annotations and text-dependent questions to collect information and check student understanding.

Lesson 3

SAY

Now let's think about the key details of the story. Think about this text-dependent question: What does the text say the girl does at the beginning, middle, and ending of the story? Close your eyes and massage your brains and think about your answer. What does the text say the girl does at the beginning, middle, and ending of the story? Be ready to share with a partner. Turn to a new partner (different from our last session) and take turns sharing your thinking.

DO

Listen as students share to confirm understanding of a text read aloud or information presented orally or through other media by asking and answering questions about key details and requesting clarification if something is not understood.

SAY

This was awesome information! Let's go back to the text and annotate the evidence we have to support our thinking.

DO

Model for students how to connect their retelling of the story to evidence from the text.

Lesson 3

Open-ended response

Complete the fourth step of the Close Reading process 4. Use open ended responses to check for student understanding of text and how information from this text supports their thoughts on the unit's big ideas/guiding question.

Think about this text-dependent question: How does the girl in the story understand her feelings and thoughts when she experiences different things in her life? What can we learn from her? Use your Retelling Graphic Organizer to draw pictures of the key details in the beginning, middle, and ending of the story.

SAY

Read Aloud

Close Reading Process Anchor Chart

1. Fluent Read of entire text for joy of reading and fluency (intonation, expression, and accuracy).
2. Read portions of the text closely for academic vocabulary, deeper understanding of topic, and annotate text.
3. Use annotations and text-dependent questions to collect information and check your own understanding.
4. Use open-ended responses to check your own understanding of the text and how information from this text supports your thoughts on the unit's big ideas/guiding question.

Lesson 3

Rotate and support student thinking with probing questions like:

- What are you drawing for the beginning, middle or ending?
- What did the text tell you about how the girl in the story understands her feelings and thoughts when she experiences different things in her life?
- What can we learn from her?
- What was the girl doing in the story?"

DO

Provide support to students as needed and allow students to dictate responses to the teacher (write student words below each of their drawings for the story).
