

Lesson 5

Text-dependent questions

Let's remember that as critical readers, thinkers, and writers, we are going to read different stories to learn information to help us answer this guiding question: How can I understand my feelings and thoughts when I experience different things in my life? As we read the anchor texts in this unit, let's think of information or ideas we can learn from the text that will help us answer this guiding question.

Re-read the story. Then, complete the third step of the Close Reading process 3. Use annotations and text-dependent questions to collect information and check student understanding.

Lesson 5

SAY

Now let's think about the key details of the story. Think about this text-dependent question: Is there a central message or lesson in the story? Use key details from the story and evidence to support your thinking. Close your eyes and massage your brains and think about your answer. Is there a central message or lesson in the story? Use key details from the story and evidence to support your thinking. Be ready to share with a partner. Turn to a new partner (different from our last session), and take turns sharing your thinking.

DO

Listen as students share to assess students ability to ask and answer questions about key details in a text read aloud or information presented orally or through other media.

SAY

This was awesome information! Let's go back to the text and annotate the evidence we have to support our thinking.

DO

Model for students how to connect their retelling of the story to evidence from the text.

Lesson 5

Open-ended response

Complete the fourth step of the Close Reading process 4. Use open-ended responses to check for student understanding of text and how information from this text supports their thoughts on the unit's big ideas/guiding question.

Think about this text-dependent question: What does the text say happened at the beginning, middle, and ending of the story? Is there a central message or lesson in the story? Use key details from the story and evidence to support your thinking. Use your Retelling Graphic Organizer to draw pictures of the key details in the beginning, middle, and ending of the story.

Read Aloud

Close Reading Process Anchor Chart

1. Fluent Read of entire text for joy of reading and fluency (intonation, expression, and accuracy).
2. Read portions of the text closely for academic vocabulary, deeper understanding of topic, and annotate text.
3. Use annotations and text-dependent questions to collect information and check your own understanding.
4. Use open-ended responses to check your own understanding of the text and how information from this text supports your thoughts on the unit's big ideas/guiding question.

Lesson 5

Rotate and support student thinking with probing questions like:

- What are you drawing for the beginning, middle or ending?
- What did the text tell you?
- What is the central message or lesson?

DO

Provide support to students as needed and allow students to dictate responses to the teacher (write student words below each of their drawings for the story).
