

Read High Frequency Words

Some frequently used words are not decodable with the phonics students know. Students will learn to spell and recognize these words by sight. This will support their ability to read them accurately when they encounter them in texts. Introduce or review the High Frequency Words and consider posting them for easy reference.

Level C High Frequency Words: no new High Frequency Words

Previously Taught Word List: from, give, know, live (verb), live (adj.), once, please, put, some, thanks, want, were, because, before, been, both, buy, pull, many, goes, their, very, would, write, about, carry, done, eight, people, laugh, kind, don't, along, something, example, always, both, together, often, important, children, idea, enough, really, almost, above, sometimes, talk, leave, family

Have students sit with their assigned partner for the week.

Students, we know that we can use sounds to help us read words. We also know that there are some words that can't be sounded out. Before we read today, we are going to read words that we will see often in our reading and/or that can't be sounded out. We need to know these words by sight, or automatically, so we call these "High Frequency Words." For these words, you will read and spell each word. Read, spell, read.

Lesson 1

DO

Point to the first word.

SAY

Read. [Pause to allow the students to read the word.] Spell.

DO

Point to each letter and prompt the students to say each letter name.

SAY

[After students have said the names of all the letters in the word prompt them to read the word.] Read. [Pause to allow the students to read the word.]

DO

Repeat this procedure for each word, having students “read, spell, read” each word.

Introduce Shared Reading Passage and Model Fluent Reading

DO

Post the “When I read fluently...” chart and review the elements of fluency with students.

Lesson 1

Remember that in Shared Reading, we will read many texts to improve our fluency. Fluent readers read words of a text accurately, or correctly, at a good rate (speed), and with expression. When we read fluently, we are better able to comprehend or understand what we read.

Ask students to think about the goal they set for themselves last week when they filled out their fluency self-assessment. Have them turn and tell their partner which element of fluency they want to focus on improving this week. Post the text, “Less Screen Time for Children,” so that all students can see the words. Read aloud the title of the text.

This is the text we will read together this week. We will read it together many times so that by the end of the week, you will be able to read it (or part of it) fluently on your own.

Write the week’s learning objective for all students to see and read it aloud. “I can improve my reading fluency by practicing reading ‘Less Screen Time for Children’ accurately, at a good speed, and with expression and feeling.”

Remember, the goal is to improve reading fluency by the end of the week. You do not have to read the text fluently right away. Practicing rereading will improve your fluency.

Lesson 1

DO

Reread the title, then read aloud the text, the photo caption, and the information in both text boxes. Read aloud the text with expression and at a slightly slower pace so that students can easily follow along.

SAY

As I read, I will use my finger to follow the words and you will listen, watch, and follow along silently. Ready?

DO

Reread the title, then read aloud the text with expression and at a slightly slower pace so that students can easily follow along.

SAY

Now I will read the text again and stop to discuss some key vocabulary. You will follow along silently, and this time, I want you to think about what happens in this story. Ready?

DO

Read aloud the text again while students follow along silently. As you read, stop to define the following vocabulary:
released: available for people to read peers: other children their age harm: hurt; damage
guidelines (from the text box): advice; recommendations
(Consider posting the words and definitions and reviewing them in each lesson.)

Lesson 1

SAY

We will read the passage again and you will answer some questions about the passage.

Practice Choral Reading and Answer Questions about the Text

DO

Distribute a copy of the passage to each student.

SAY

Students, now we will chorally read the passage together. As I read, you will follow along on your own text and read out loud what I am reading. We will read the words together, using voices that are not too loud, and not too quiet. Remember to use your finger to follow the words as we read. Ready?

DO

Reread the title, then read aloud the text, including the information in the “Do You Know?” box with the students. Be sure to model fluent reading for students, reading not too slowly or too fast. (During choral reading, make a mental note of any students who have challenges and which words cause hesitation.)

Once you are finished reading, give the whole group specific, positive feedback about how they read fluently. (Refer to the “When I read fluently,...” chart and identify one element that students did well.)

Lesson 1

Now I want you to think about the text and I am going to ask you some questions. When I ask a question, you are going to turn to your partner and take turns answering the question.

Ask the following comprehension questions one at a time. After students discuss each question in pairs, invite one or two students to share with the whole group.

Q: What age of children is the author of this passage writing about?
(Children under 5 years old)

Q: How does the author define screen time? (TV watching, time on phone, tablets, computers)

Q: What reasons does the author give for why children should get less screen time? (too much screen time causes children to eat more, get less exercise, and sleep and talk less)

In the next lesson, we will read this text again as a group and you will also practice reading it on your own.

Collect the students' copies of the passage. See lesson 1 for the correction routine.