

Play Reading BINGO

Learn the Tip

1. Create your board. Create a grid where each square has a different reading challenge. This could include places to read, time, and type of book.
2. Select the time frame. Depending on your child's age, you may want to choose one challenge per day or as many as they'd like.
3. Choose a reward. Your child can work toward completing one row at a time or opt for a full board "blackout" to earn a larger prize.

Why this tip?

Reading BINGO encourages kids to try different and fun reading challenges. Your child will be excited to read to get a BINGO! They might even find new books they enjoy.

Ask Your Child

For younger children:

- Would you like to read a book outside today or inside a blanket fort?
- Would you like to read a book to a friend/family member today?
- How many more squares until you've earned a BINGO?

For older children:

- Will you read fantasy or poetry today?
- Will you jot down questions while you read today or note unfamiliar words?
- What challenge have you chosen to take on today?

Playfully Practice: Kindness BINGO

This is a fun and easy game to get everyone in the family thinking about ways to show kindness to each other and the community.

1. Create/fill a blank BINGO board with simple kindness activities such as, "give someone a compliment" or "make a card for a friend."
2. Ask your child which activity from the board they would like to try that day.
3. After the task is completed, talk about how it went as you cross out the square. Go for a full board "blackout" and reward yourselves with some fun family time!
